As a humble tribute commemorating the historic occasion of 300 years of Gurta Gaddi Diwas of Sri Guru Granth Sahib, the film propagates a way of life infused with rich heritage of Sikh tenets and Punjabi culture.

The movie revolves around love, traditional values, sentiments and absolute faith towards the Almighty God. For the first time, the "true to life" ambience of pilgrimage places like Sri Harmandar Sahib (Amritsar), Sri Hazur Sahib (Nanded) and Sri Bangla Sahib (Delhi) has been shot on the silver screen. In essence, it is a story of conflict between families and their different styles of upbringing their children. Passing through youthful college life, humorous situations and pleasant moments, one of the family members becomes the victim of conspiracies by some near ones, arising out of jealousy. Based on true happenings, the story of the movie is a live account of their unshakeable belief in WaheGuru God, even when all the doors around the world were closed for them.
